

The Need

See the ability, not the disability. Many people don't realize that people with disabilities are America's largest minority group. The disability community makes up 20 percent of the population and contains people of every ethnicity, age, and gender. Despite this significant presence, there is a lack of regular public dialogue about how to be inclusive of this major segment of our population.

BDI Disability Awareness Solutions helps organizations see that people with disabilities have talents and abilities to share. Our training provides the knowledge and practical solutions to enable your organization to better understand, accept, and integrate people with disabilities.

BDI Disability Awareness Solutions sessions are led by trained facilitators and use an interactive and experiential curriculum to help engage participants and create a positive learning environment. Each participant also receives a workbook full of tips and resources to help continue the value of training beyond the session.

Rates vary depending on the type of session and company size. Contact us today for more information!
